Judgments

The final decision of a court resolving a dispute and determining the rights and obligations of the parties. A judgment may or may not have been initiated through a lawsuit. Judgment satisfaction occurs when the rights of the prevailing parties have been restored and any obligations have been paid. A satisfaction of judgment is then filed with the court of record. Vacated judgments are considered cancelled or rescinded. Stayed judgments are suspended and prevailing parties are refrained from enforcing it of for the time period designated by the court.

Suits

A proceeding filed by a plaintiff(s) against a defendant(s) in a court of law, in which the plaintiff(s) seeks monetary and/or non-monetary relief. A suit may result in a dismissal or be disposed of without trial if the issues if the claims are deemed invalid. A dismissal with prejudice bars the complaintant from filing a future action on the same claim. A dismissal without prejudice provides the complaintant the right to sue again on the same cause of action.
